"I have been more or less troubled with scrofula, but never very seriously until the spring of 1882. At that time, I took a severe cold which, not withstanding all efforts to cure, grew worse, and finally became a chronic castarth. I tried many of the so-called specifics, but obtained no relief until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using nearly two bottles of this medicine, I noticed an improvement. When I had taken six bottles, all traces of catarth had disappeared and I was restored to perfect health."

AN INDIAN MODEL IN COURT.

W. M. Cary's picture of "The Buffalo Signal" was on exhibition in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday, and Justice O'Reilly steed up and looked admiringly at it over the banch. Ita-Wa-Ilao or Night Hawk, who stood for the model of the Indian, who is wearing a robe on the canvas to proclaim to all whom it may concern on the plains below him that buffalo are in sight, also regarded it as though he had seen it before. Ita-Wa-Ilao's other name had seen it befors. Ita-Wa-Ilao's other name, bestowed upon him in a Government school, is antonio Esquivai. He is a fine young Indian, if years of age and fully six feet tail, but he seknowledged having stolen the picture and pawned it for $35, in order to redeem "The Little Captive," another painting that he had borrowed catensibly to sell, but which he had subsequently piedged for $25.

Tta-Wa-Ilao did not seem to realize that he had open that nobody would interfere with him, as his character was not only pure, but had been, until his arrest, above suspicion. He protested that he was in daily expectation of receiving a remittance, and that he would certainly have redeemed "The Buffalo Signal" had the detectives not been too quick for him. Further, he claimed that, in addition to speaking the Apache language in its native purity, he could converse fluently in English, Italian, and ipanish. He was proud of his connection with Buffalo Bill's Wild West show, with which he had travelled in Europe and this country, and he denied that he had ever accepted remuneration for posing as a model; he had posed from bour love of the occupation.

He was committed in default of $2,500 bail.

Mrs. Morehead Frightons a Burgiar. A burglar entered the house of Capt. James Morehead, 239 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning by removing the catch on a basement window. Capt. Morehead had gone to sea on Tuesday, and his wife and a servant were alone in the house. Mrs. Morehead was awakened about 3 o'clock by the noise h the burglar made in searching for which the burglar made in searching for plunder, but she thought it best to make no suttors. When the marauder however, entered her room and approached her bedside, Mrs. Morebead pretended to call to her husband in an adjoining room, saying: "James, come here, quick; I think there is some one in the proom." This had the desire! effect, and the burglar took to flight. He was a tall, slim man, sightly deformed, and was wearing dark clothing and a slouch hat. He carried off a diamond scalar button, worth $250; a pocketbook containing $75, and other articles of jewelry, valued at $250.

Pollos Clubbers Reprimanded.

James Walsh and his mother, Ellen Walsh, were tried yesterday before Justice Walsh in the Adams street Police Court, Brooklyn, for an alleged assault on Policemen Ulrich and Ward, of the Bergen street station. Young Walsh was drunk a few nights ago in Carroll street, and he gave the policemen a tough job to carry him to the station. Both of them clubbed him on the head, and when his mother saw the blood pouring over his face, she picked up a stone and threw it at the clubbers. The testimony of several witnesses showed that he latter used unnecessary violence.

Justice Walsh in dismissing the complaint
hus addressed the policemen:

thus addressed the policemen:

"You are two burly men, and I am surprised at the manner you treated this young man and his mother. You had no right to club him the way you did. Whenever an officer finds it peccesary to use his stick, the proper place for him do so is on the body of the prisoner, and sot on his head."

Burglars In Glen Cove.

Burglars entered the private residences of and J. K. O. Sherwood, in Gien Cove, early on Tuesday morning. In nearly every place they were frightened off, but they managed to get some booty. Entrances were effected by unfastening windows.

Speaking of hats; if you patronize one of the three or four fashionable hatters you have no choice but to follow his dictum of what is proper style, as each produces his own shape. We have them all, and you select the style that becomes your physiognomy. Besides we sell for $3.00 a Derby that competent judges consider practically equal to the $5.00 hat store article. We have lower grades, of course, and they are all excellent hats, $1.90 and $2.50. We do it by going direct to the factory and selling at case prices, which our large business permits. Boys' hats are a special feature of our trade.

Man's other extremity is equally well provided for in our shoe department, where only the trusty sorts of foot wear are dealt in, and great care is used in proper fitting.

But the great business of the house is in furnishing goods and clothing. We make the clothes ourselves, and every possible device is used to perfect the garments we produce for men and boys. More people wear our clothing every year, and we were never better prepared to serve them than we are right now. It is with us less a question of cheapness than of excellence; and yet price, always a moderate price, quality considered, is an essential of such success as we have
